

Noble Accelerator Program

A motion picture development accelerator for good, true, and beautiful stories.

Content Mandate:

We require that your story be “an aspirational story that celebrates what is good, true, and beautiful.” It is optional (but recommended) that your story is based on underlying intellectual property - such as a book, life story, real events, video game, podcast, or other pre-existing material.

Your story must have a rating no more restrictive than PG-13, and not contain explicit sex or nudity.

For this course, we are not considering the following genres: horror, sci-fi, or superhero. We are looking for stories that appeal to a broad audience, so niche or overly art-driven films (i.e., A24) will likely not be accepted.

Budget:

All budgets are encouraged to apply. We have the most opportunities for films with a projected net (after tax incentives) production budget between $5MM and $10MM USD.

Story Rights:

You must exclusively own the motion picture rights to your script and all other developed materials. If your story is based on underlying source material (including life stories), you must own or have written permission to develop a screenplay based on the material. Your project must not be set up anywhere, and you must not have any agreements which would prevent you from developing or shopping the project.

You must also declare if there are any liens, loans, or financial obligations on the project.
